The concept used to produce this architecture were the basic shapes I was given when I first created a design. These shapes are important tools used by architects as well as interior designers. I decided to pay homage to these basic shapes that many design students use to get the gears of creativity rolling.